DCI TALKING POINTS ON FUTURE SIGNALS ENVIRONMENT STUDY

- o The Future Signals Environment Study was an Intelligence Community effort to forecast the signals environment at the turn of the century. It was an extensive effort that was reviewed and approved by the National Foreign Intelligence Board in August. The authors are cleaning it up now and are planning to distribute the report in about a month. [REDACTED] 25X1
- o We plan to routinely send the basic two-volume report to the Oversight Committees at that time (in October), but there are several sensitive portions that we are planning to retain under the control of the Intelligence Community Staff. I think that access to these sensitive portions of the report would be helpful to the Committees and I would appreciate it if you would name one or two staff members to read these portions at [REDACTED]. This additional material will provide a context for a full understanding of the material provided in the basic report. [REDACTED] 25X1 25X1
